

Useful e-safety websites

If you have a query about internet safety or wish to find out more, you may find these websites useful:

www.ceop.gov.uk – The Child Exploitation and Online Protection Centre (CEOP) is a Government agency, part of UK policing, who are dedicated to eradicating sexual abuse of children. They are involved with tracking perpetrators and bringing them to account with local and international forces.

www.thinkuknow.co.uk This is an educational website set up by CEOP, designed especially for children, young people, teachers, parents and carers. There are lots of useful resources, links, games and information on a range of topics related to internet safety.

www.kidsmart.org.uk -An award winning internet safety site for parents and those working with children developed by 'Childnet'. It has up to date information on many of the technologies used by children

<http://parents.vodafone.com/> - A site developed between Vodafone and Mumsnet providing information and guidance for parents and carers about their children's digital world.

<https://www.nspcc.org.uk/preventing-abuse/keeping-children-safe/share-aware/> Educational site about staying safe online

<http://www.childnet.com/> - helping to ensure that parents keep their children safe online

<https://www.digizen.org/> This site strengthens awareness of digital citizenship. It shares specific and resources about issues such as cyberbullying and social networking and how these affect your own and other people's online experiences and behaviours.

www.kidrex.org is a good place for children to search the internet safely

<http://www.dinopass.com/> Helps children create safe passwords